Miscellaneous: In 1844, Jeremiah and his bride moved to Marion County, Iowa, with his father's family. They left Indiana Aug. 6th and arrived in Marion County, Iowa, August 26, 1844. They made the trip by oxen, covered wagons, bringing their furniture. He and his wife moved to Liberty township, in October 1844. He made four trips across the plains and back. The first time he left his wife and small children at home, on May 6, 1850, during the "forty-niners" rush to California, he trekked on to the gold fields. He arrived back home on Dec. 24, 1852, bringing large amounts of gold with him. On one of these trips he became acquainted with James Bridger, the famous frontiersman. James acted as guide for the wagon train. (Newspaper clipping)
